More PPP schools contracted by Ministry of Education

In December last year, the ministry announced plans for six new schools around the country under a PPP. They include three new primary schools in Auckland, one new primary school in Hamilton and the relocation and co-location of Shirley Boys' and Avonside Girls' high schools in Christchurch. All would open by 2019.

It would be the third deal between the public and private sector to build and maintain schools, and the largest so far. The tender makes clear that further schools may be included into the project with projected openings in 2020 or 2021
