

Collegium Civitas

has the pleasure to invite you to a meeting with

Hakan Altınay

(Senior Fellow, the Brookings Institution)

who will give a talk entitled

THE CASE FOR PUTTING GLOBAL CIVICS INTO UNIVERSITY CURRICULA

Hakan Altınay is a non resident senior fellow at the Brookings Institution. He was the Executive director of the Open Society Foundation in Istanbul from 2001 to 2009. He studied Political Science at Bogazici University as well as Social Anthropology at the University of Oslo and the New School, New York. He has held several appointments, most notably at Yale University and he is the author of numerous publications in the Turkish and US media.

The meeting will be held in English

Wednesday, November 3, 2010, at 16.30

Auditorium A, Collegium Civitas
Palace of Culture and Science, 12th floor,
1 Plac Defilad, 00-901 Warsaw, Poland